

North Carolina Telecommunications Industry Association

NCTIA Introduces Online Searchable Directory

March 13, 2007 – The North Carolina Telecommunications Industry Association (NCTIA) is pleased to unveil a new feature to its website – an online searchable database of its membership.

The new directory is a direct link between the products and services of our Associate Members and the telecommunications providers they serve. NCTIA Member Companies are now able to find current contact information for Associate Member Companies, browse companies by category to find products/services, and check that potential vendors are NCTIA members.

The online directory joins other services, like online registration, as another way that NCTIA is striving to meet member needs. “Keeping North Carolina Connected” is the focus of the NCTIA website and its features. By keeping its members connected, NCTIA is able to promote a better business environment for the North Carolina telecommunications industry.